UNCLE WIGGILY, with Nurse Jane and Uncle Butter, went to the seashore. The bunny was just going to dive in when Uncle Butter bleated: "Come quick! Nurse Jane's tail is caught in the board walk!" When Uncle Wiggily had gotten Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy loose, he found that Jackie Bow Wow had fallen in a sand hole.

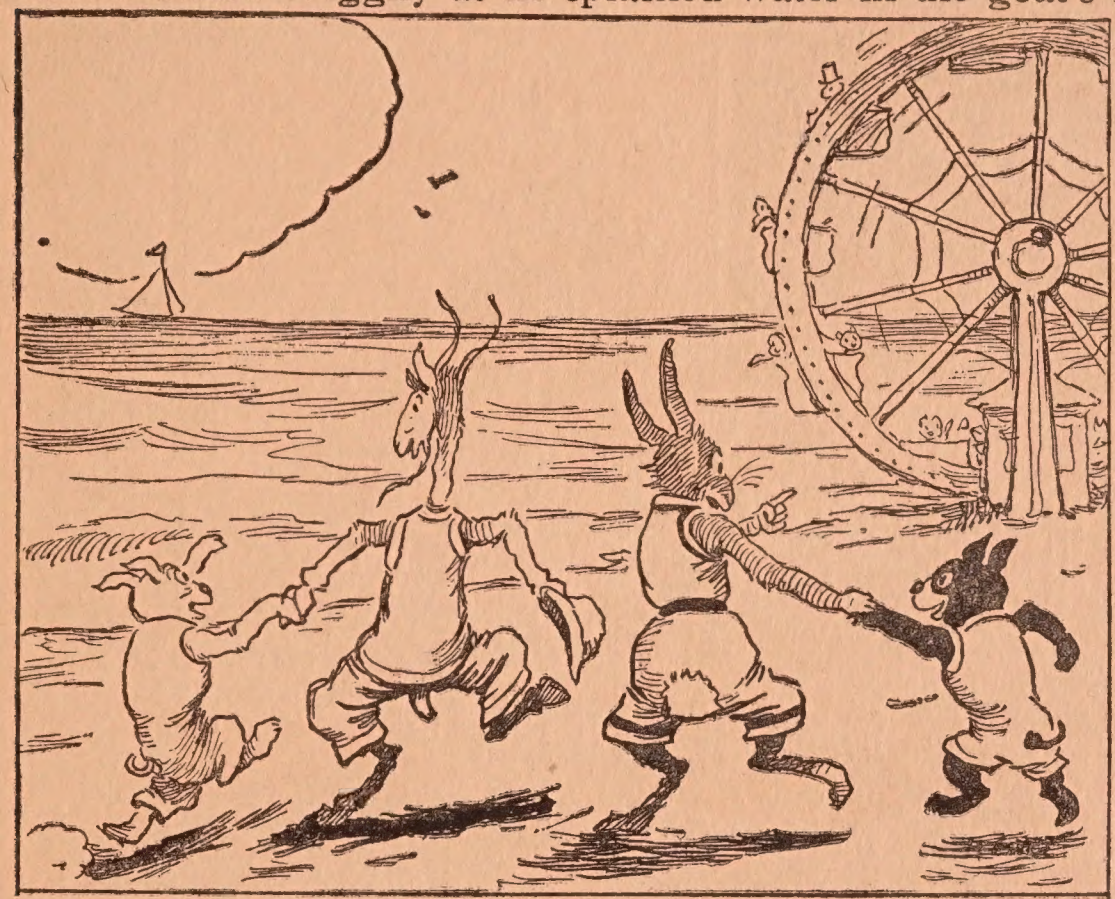
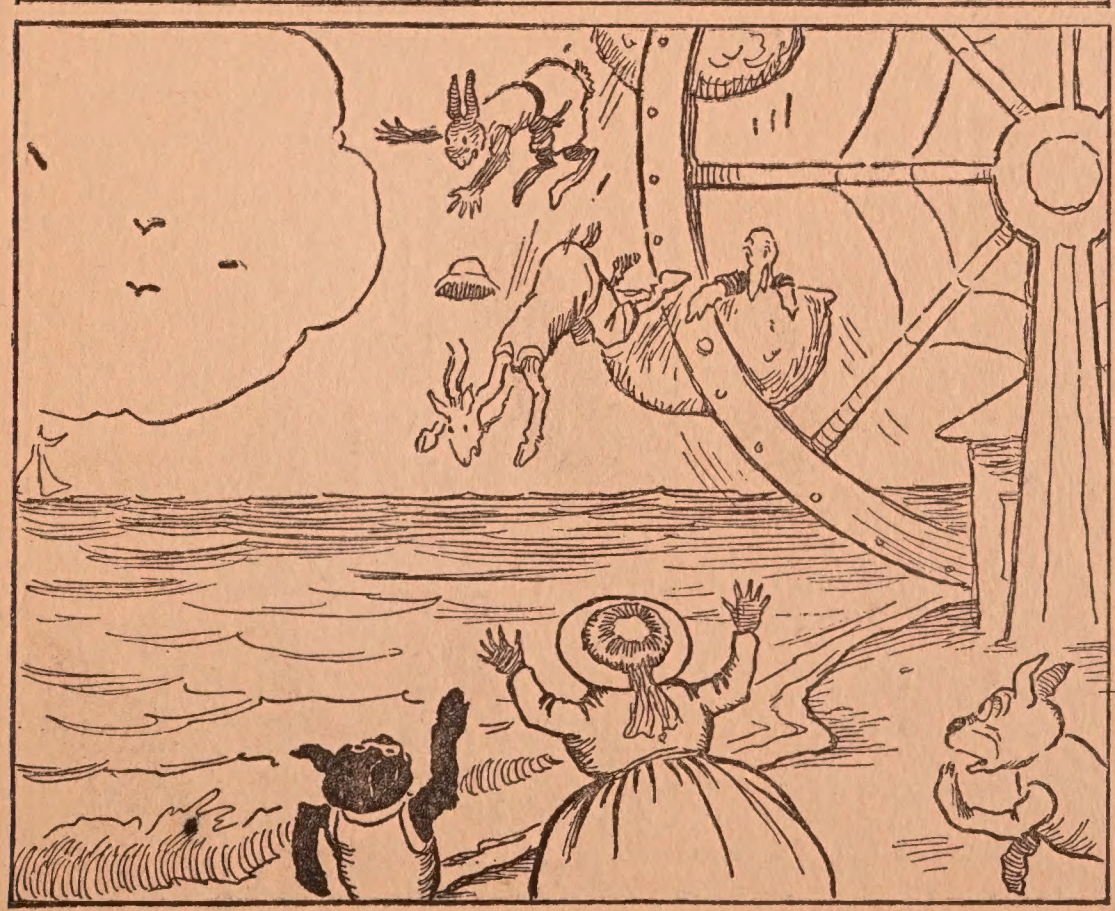
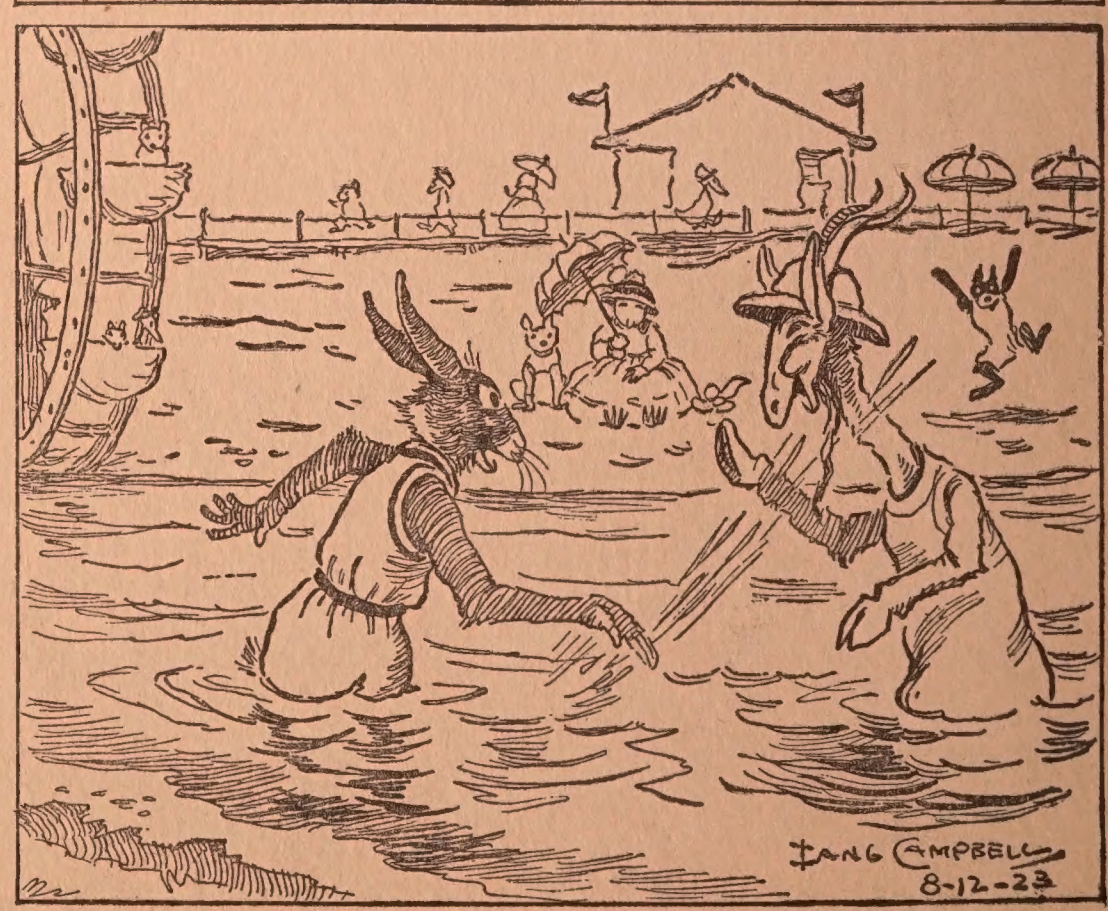
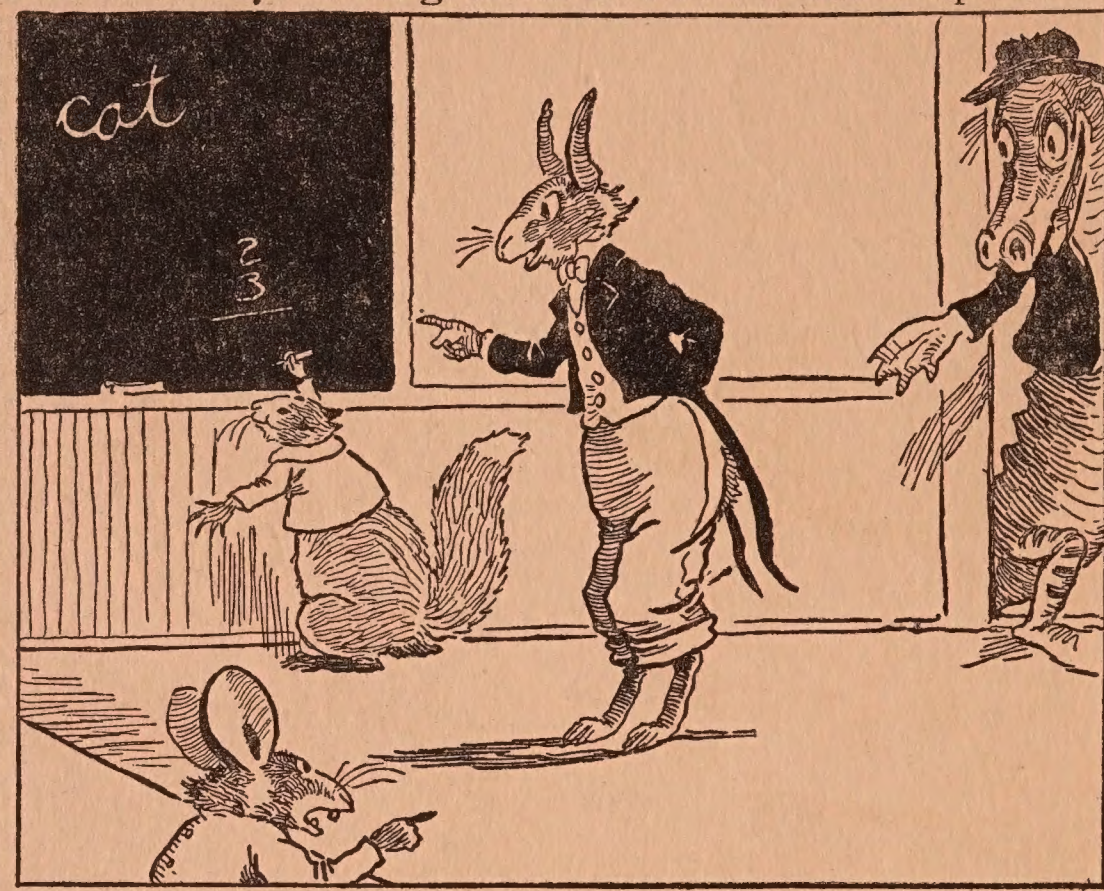
"I must dig him out," said Uncle Wiggily. "It doesn't seem that I will ever get a swim." But when he and Uncle Butter rode on the big wheel they fell off, into the water, and had a swim after all. "This is fun; isn't it?" asked Uncle Wiggily as he splashed water in the goat's face. "It is!" bleated Uncle Butter.

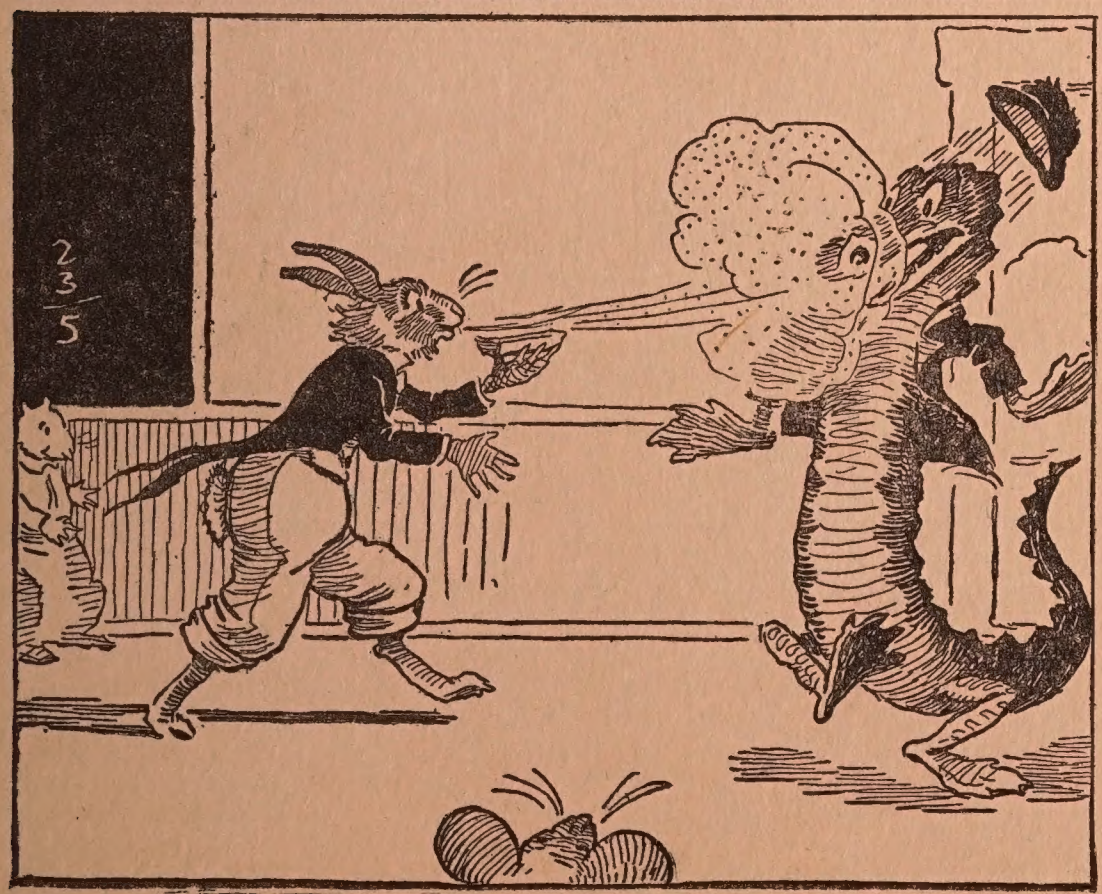


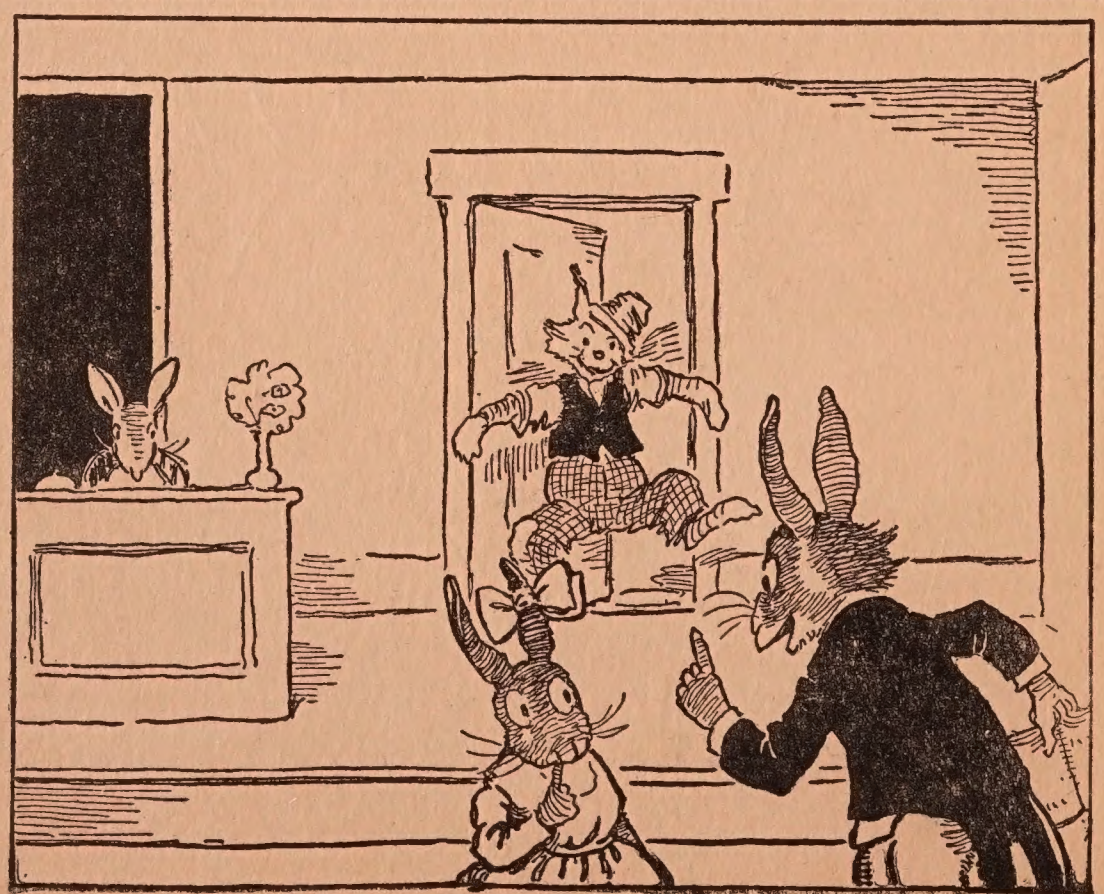




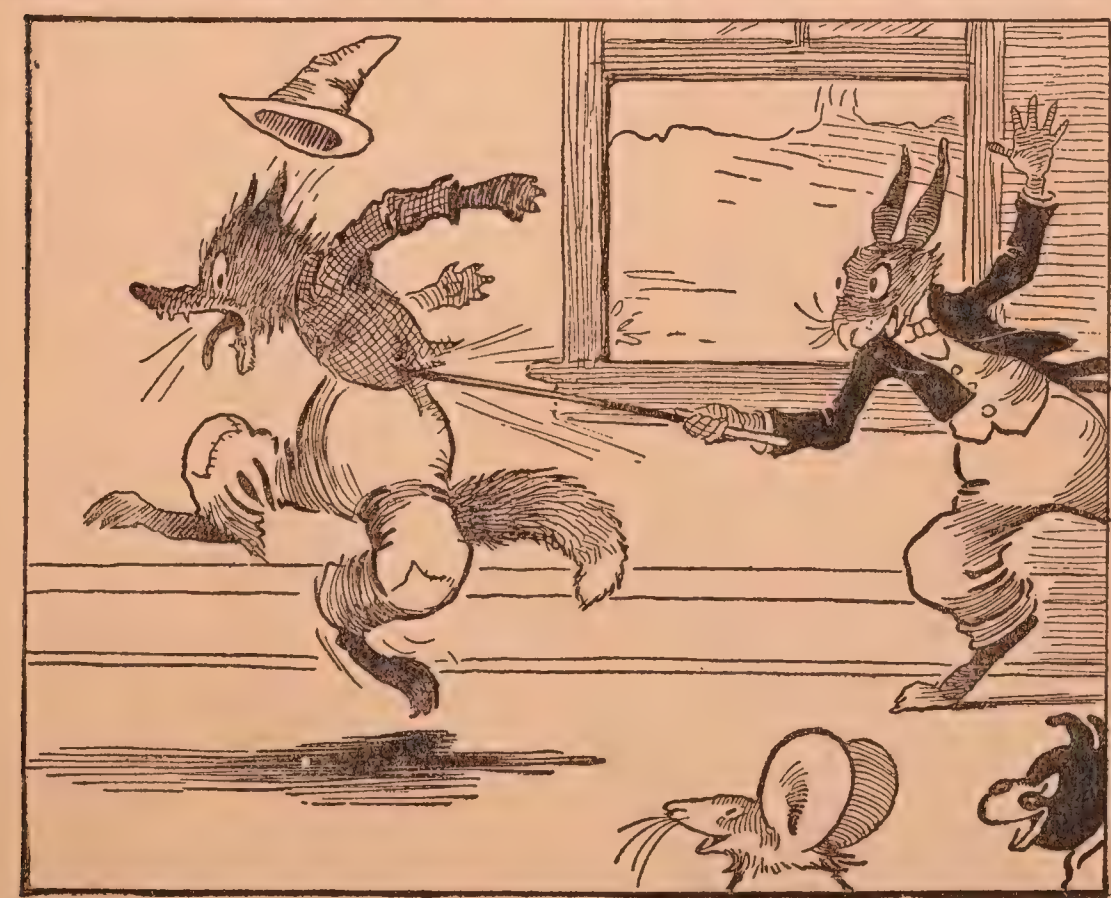
THE Alligator stood on a stump and said to the Fox and Bob Cat: "Uncle Wiggily is going to school today. We shall catch him there and nibble his ears!" The bunny gentleman was watching the squirrel boy do a lesson when in came the 'Gator. "Puff! out you go!" cried the bunny blowing chalk dust in the bad chap's face.







And when the Bob Cat came in the bunny threw a hard spelling book at him. And when the Fox entered, Uncle Wiggily tickled him with the pointer, and watered the three bad chaps. He emptied a pail of water on them from the window. "We should have worn bathing suits!" cried the Fox.



UNCLE WIGGILY made a snow plow. "We'll give you a ride!" cried the piggie boys and Jackie Bow Wow." Uncle Wiggily said: "Ride me to Grandpa Goosey's house and we'll plow the snow off his walk." So they did, and next they plowed a path to the home of Uncle Butter the goat. Out through a snow drift the goat butted himself. "I'll help you pull the plow," he bleated. Seeing two big heaps of snow, Uncle Wiggily said: "Some one must be under there. We'll plow them them out!" It was the Fox and Wolf, but Uncle Wiggily got safely away. The piggie boys pulled the bunny and goat along on the sled. "Hurray!" cried Uncle Butter.

"WHAT is the axe and poker for?" asked Nurse Jane. "It is New Years," answered Uncle Wiggily, "and we might have some bad callers. Along came the Fox. The bunny opened the door and with the shovel hit the Fox on his nose. The Wolf tried to make a New Year's call through the window. But the poker made him go away. The Bob Cat next knocked on the door, but Nurse Jane, with a stick of wood, drove him off. When the Bear went to the chimney the smoke sneezed him from the roof. "A-ker-choo!" sneezed the Bear as the smoke tickled his nose. "Ha! Ha!" laughed Nurse Jane. "He's catching cold!"

THE bad Fox and Wolf threw snowballs, knocking off Uncle Wiggily's hat, so the bunny ran home without it. Near his hollow stump bungalow the bunny saw some animal boys having a jolly snow fight. "The Fox and Wolf will bring your hat back. Uncle Wiggily," barked Jackie. "They think you will run out to pick it up and when you do they will nibble your ears." Uncle Wiggily told the animal boys to hide behind his bungalow with plenty of hard snowballs. The bunny picked up his hat. The boys snowballed the bad chaps. "Run away and let Uncle Wiggily alone!" barked Jackie. And I just wish you could have seen them run.

UNCLE WIGGILY put an egg beater and a rolling pin on the Christmas tree for Nurse Jane. "Oh, how lovely!" cried the muskrat lady housekeeper. In popped the Fox. "Uncle Wiggily's ears are lovely! he growled. But Nurse Jane tickled his nose with the egg beater. And when the Woozie Wolf burst in, Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy gave him the nose ache with her Christmas rolling pin. Then the Bob Cat sneaked in to clip the bunny's ears. But with his Christmas tennis racket the bunny gentleman made the Bob Cat feel so funny he ran away. "That was a funny Christmas present you gave the Bob Cat!" laughed Nurse Jane, waving her paws in the air.

ONE summer day Uncle Wiggily went to the swimming hole with Bully and Bawly No Tail the frog boys. "I'll jump from the spring board!" cried the bunny. But he went in the mud so deep the frog boys had to pull him out. "Come," they croaked, "we will give you a ride on our raft." Uncle Wiggily sailed on the raft while the frog boys swam. Soon the Fox caught the bunny and took him away. But Bully and Bawly put a big rock on the end of the board, and shot the Fox with the stone so Uncle Wiggily was saved. Away hopped the bunny with the froggie boys. "Wug! Wug!" grunted the Fox, for the stone was heavy on his back.

INSTRUCTIONS

Paint brushes should be washed clean and dried each time after using. Try color on a piece of spare paper before using on picture, to see that you have the shade wanted. Always begin a picture at the top, and work downward from left to right. The edge of a color may be softened by a clean damp brush.

RED, BLUE and YELLOW, are simple or primary colors, and cannot be made by mixing.

ORANGE, PURPLE and GREEN are compound or secondary colors, and

ORANGE is made by mixing RED and YELLOW
PURPLE is made by mixing RED and BLUE
GREEN is made by mixing YELLOW and BLUE

If young beginners find trouble in using paints, the use of colored crayons is recommended.
